You See It Differently

You see it differently.

Nothing changed.

Not the light.
Not the shape.
Not the moment.

But something shifts.

You don’t look the same way.
You don’t hold it the same way.

And now—it’s different.

You see it differently.